In addition, don't miss out on the exclusive details from Ali Fazal and Richa Chadha's recently concluded sustainable wedding (pg 49); while designer duo Arpita Mehta and Kunal Rawal's much-awaited wedding was a class in understated glamour (p. 50).

As travel comes back in our lives post pandemic, destination weddings are seeing a major comeback after the two-year lull. Find out the hottest wedding destinations that should be on your radar right now, whether in India or abroad (p. 76). And after the hectic social gathering, the favourite part awaits the bride and the groom—the honeymoon. Our carefully

WEDDING CLASSICS RETHOUGHT

A special occasion calls for a mindful and memorable outfit, and this year, we're rethinking wedding wear inspirations! The spotlight is as much on the bridesmaids as it is, on the bride. Here's a selection of a few stunning collections to make your wedding prep a breeze. BY RALAN KITHAN

ANITA DONGRE

Anita Dongre blends sustainability, Indian crafts, and designs like no other. If you are thinking of wearing conscious fashion without compromising on grandeur, Anita Dongre is your go-to designer. The lehengas are hand-crafted in the finest traditions, with motifs that blend the old with the new. Dongre's creations exude quirkiness—like lehengas with pockets, that give a modern touch to the Indian bride. Using age-old techniques like zari and gota patti embroidery, in which gold is used as an embellishment, or hand-painted motifs, the outfits are a fusion of the finest materials and India's opulent crafts. anitadongre.com

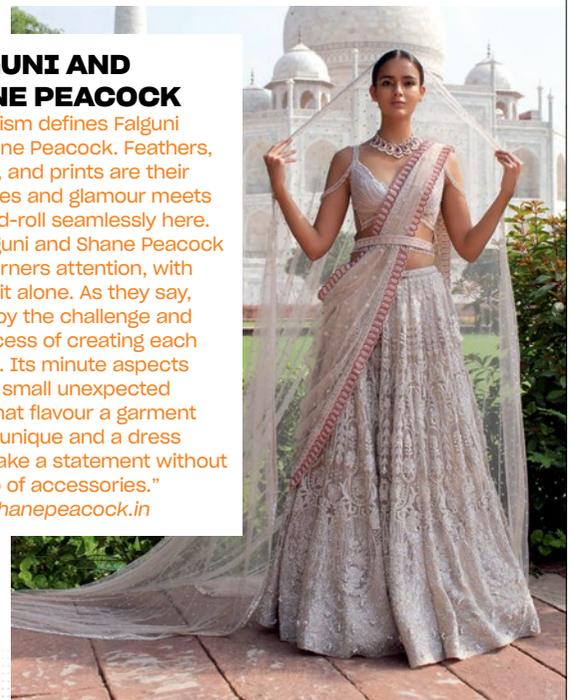

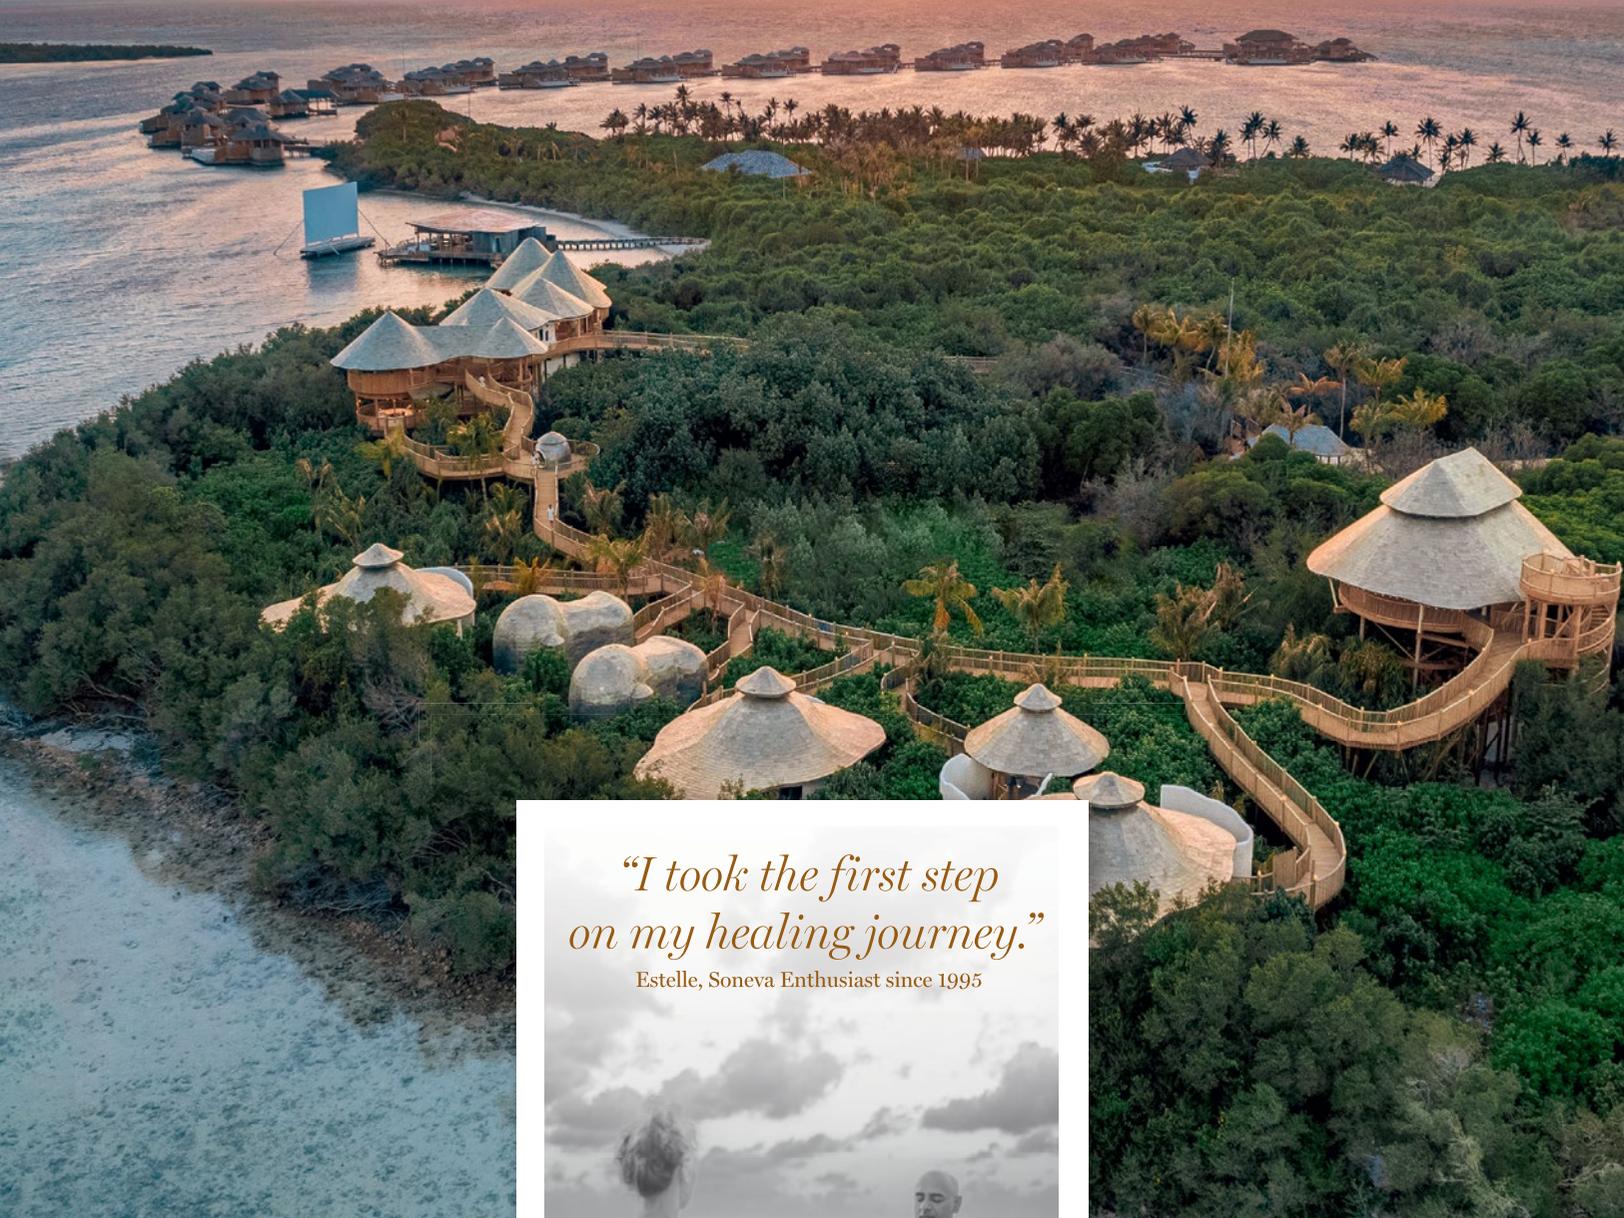

RAW MANGO

One name that spells perfection, when it comes to blending comfort and Indian heirloom-style is Raw Mango. The design house draws its inspiration from the colours, philosophies and cultures of India. Through a variety of garments, the design house continues to spark new discussions about politics, culture, and textiles. Raw Mango embraces comfort, ease, and tradition, something that resonates with a special occasion. They play with colours, using exquisite weaves from Varanasi silk brocade, zari, tissue silk, to more ornate embroideries and classic designs that are a recollection of celebrations from a more regal era. rawmango.com

FALGUNI AND SHANE PEACOCK

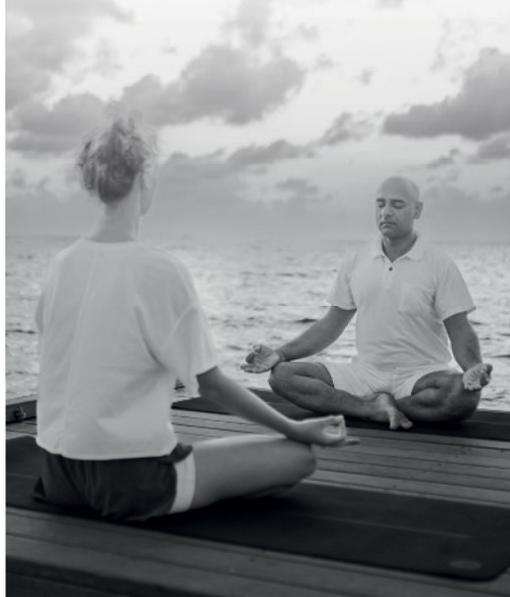

Maximalism defines Falguni and Shane Peacock. Feathers, sequins, and prints are their signatures and glamour meets rock-and-roll seamlessly here. The Falguni and Shane Peacock bride garners attention, with her outfit alone. As they say, "We enjoy the challenge and the process of creating each product. Its minute aspects and the small unexpected twists that flavour a garment make it unique and a dress must make a statement without the help of accessories." falgunishanepeacock.in

"I took the first step on my healing journey."

Estelle, Soneva Enthusiast since 1995

"We guide each guest on a personal pathway to wellness. Uniting ancient wisdom with modern science to heal body, mind and soul."

Dr Arsallan, Soneva Soul Doctor.

RIDHI MEHRA

If you're the bride seeking fairytale allure, Ridhi Mehra's wedding outfits fit the bill. Her creations imbibe a contemporary beauty that is effortless, light, and incredibly feminine. From ruffles, to chiffon drapes and organza capes, Ridhi Mehra plays it all up very beautifully along with clean lines, delicate details, and a dash of drama—her signature. The label blends Indian workmanship, while adding touches of the Parisian and Greek cultures with excellent tailoring, sophisticated cuts embellished with traditional Indian embroidery. ridhimehra.com

JADE BY MONICA & KARISHMA

Unabated couture in India comes in the form of JADE, which tells the story of Indian crafts through its garments. From unique colour palettes to Indian artisanship, JADE merges classics and contemporary silhouettes. Emphasising on handcrafted luxury, the label maintains attention to detail. Monica Shah, the lady behind the brand says, "A bride's ensemble reflects her dreams, her story and her journey. And our vision is to help her achieve that." jadebymk.com

RITU KUMAR

Ritu Kumar's wedding couture embodies the quintessential bride. The label values textiles with understated luxury. With knowledge of vintage designs and traditional crafts, the label produces fresh creations. Drawing inspiration from the Sultanate era, Mughal to Persian style, Kumar blends Indian heritage in her designs. The bold colours, intricate embroideries, and opulent fabrics best define the brand. ritukumar.com

NIDHI THOLIA

Not every bridal ensemble has to be in monotonous, it can also feature a multitude of colours without going wrong, and Nidhi Tholia shows us how. Her design aesthetics come largely from Rajasthan, her native place. The age-old technique of gota patti, which was only used by royalty is interpreted uniquely in her line. The label creates unconventional craft cocktails featuring complex gota work, colourful bandhani, elaborate marodi, and zardozi details. nidhitholia.com

TORANI

Whether it's using dark colours, striking embroidery, delicate materials, or pastel hues, Torani understands how to do it. The brand's aesthetic is influenced by the memories of the founder Karan Torani's grandmother's fables and the days he spent in Bhopal with her. For Torani, the stories of Indian mythology and its legendary figures have a special resonance, something that's reflected amply in the collections. Torani celebrates Indian looms, like the madhubani of Bihar, the bandhej of Gujarat, and the exquisite mulmul of Kolkata. torani.in

CONSCIOUS ELEGANCE

On your big day, a timepiece is all about making every moment count. We've curated a collection of sustainable and elegant timepieces to make your wedding a meaningful occasion. BY RALAN KITHAN

Datejust 3 ROLEX

This timepiece was designed to appeal to everyone. The Datejust was the world's very first self-winding wristwatch to feature a date window that would automatically change over at midnight. This 31mm oyster perpetual in 18k white gold is fitted with a diamond bezel and is driven by the calibre 2236, a new generation self-winding mechanical movement. Price on request; rolex.com

Da Vinci Automatic 36 IWC

A sleek timepiece, its simple and classic design is as appealing as the 18k 5N gold case of the Da Vinci Automatic 36, which complements the white dial. With Sapphire crystal glass, the bracelet features 54 pure white diamonds. What's even better? The gold used in the timepiece is fully traceable and made from recycled sources. ₹30,81,000; iwc.com

L'Heure du Diamant CHOPARD

This number marries watchmaking ingenuity with luxury. The dial is carved from precious materials – proportions, colours, and textures create a sublime diamond jewellery watch. Made from ethically-sourced 18k rose gold and encased with diamonds, the 30mm rose gold L'Heure du Diamant showcases Chopard's watchmaking and gem setting craftsmanship. Price on request; chopard.com

Seamaster Aqua Terra 150m OMEGA

White represents divinity and purity, and the Aqua Terra 150m illustrates a timepiece apt for a wedding day. The timepiece brings a sporty essence, added functionality and above all, elegance. Price on request; chopard.com

Sea Dweller
ROLEX

From the yellow gold surrounds on the hands and indices to the gold-coated numerals, the two-tone Sea Dweller is a timepiece that can be worn with almost anything. The Rolex Sea Dweller started out as a tool for professional deep-sea divers. The 43mm is more focused towards function and has been slightly redesigned as Rolex has been defending the environment by implementing initiatives around the world. Price on request; rolex.com

Portofino Chronograph 39
IWC

A perfect dress watch, the Portofino has been one of IWC Schaffhausen's most famous collections since 1984. It features curvaceous lugs and a pump-style chronograph pusher. IWC has committed to promoting sustainability with Timber-tex straps, made from 80 per cent natural plant fibre. The absence of a date complication and blend of applied batons and roman numerals gives it a neat and unsophisticated look. ₹5,03,000; iwc.com

Seamaster Planet Ocean 600m
OMEGA

This unconventional 39.5mm stainless steel case watch features a black ceramic dial with Arabic numerals and a scratch-resistant sapphire crystal. The diamond-set bezel with black ceramic triangle pays homage to Omega's dive watch heritage. For its ocean conservation efforts, Omega has partnered with Nekton, a non-profit research foundation committed to protect the world's oceans. ₹10,01,000; omegawatches.com

A Royal Affair

The picture-perfect Emirates Palace in Abu Dhabi makes for a regal setting for magnificent marriage festivities or a romantic honeymoon in the desert capital. BY SHIBANI BAWA

IF YOU'VE ALWAYS dreamed of saying “I Do” in a royal setting, this is the one-stop destination for you. With all its shimmer and sparkle, Emirates Palace is a new-age palace hotel. From award-winning dining options to an array of magical venues combined with traditional Arab and world-class hospitality, you and your guests will be spoiled like true blue royalty. It is no wonder that it has played host to some of the world's most rich and famous celebrities, royalty and a host of dignitaries.

The team at the Emirates Palace pulls out all the stops, when it comes to pampering you for your special day. Luxurious accommodation, intimate settings, lavish theme parties—they will honour your requests by executing them exquisitely. You can literally see your dreams take shape while you lay back and enjoy it all. Did we mention that the bridal couple have a 24x7 personal butler to cater to their demands?

A memorable beachside wedding under the starry sky or a royal soiree at the palatial Ballroom, Emirates Palace's Wedding specialists are famous for recreating fairy-tales. From setting up a romantic gazebo in the lush gardens to creating the right vibe for a glittering pool party, they offer a selection of options that are better than anything your whimsical imagination can come up with. The beautiful Ballroom is laden with ornate marble and gold, blending timeless architectural features with modern design, enriched by three Swarovski crystal chandeliers. Spread over 2,183 square metres, it can accommodate up to 2,400 guests or be divided into three smaller spaces, if so needed. Then there are elegant terraces and 1.3 km of pristine private beach, where a beautiful alfresco ambience is matched by superlative service and delectable food. Customised menus and bespoke flower arrangements ensure that your wedding is a one-of-a-kind event. To top it all, the team is well-acquainted with wedding customs from the Indian subcontinent, the Arabian Gulf region and beyond, enabling them to cater to finer details.

The accommodation is equally opulent from the ultra luxurious royal suite to two- and three-bedroom palace suites. The latter includes three interconnected suites and a magnificent majlis for a small group wanting privacy amidst all the ceremonies and rituals. There are also beachfront suites offering a panoramic view of the palm-fringed Gulf.

An Affair to Remember

Take your wedding vows at the newest W hotel to join the family of W Escapes. W Algarve blends the free-spirited vibe of the brand with Portuguese heritage and the most gorgeous sunsets over southern Portugal. BY SHIBANI BAWA

THE MAGIC of Portugal lies in its Moorish culture, ancient traditions and vibrant crafts.

The latest property to join the Marriott International group, W Algarve, incorporates all this with the brand's own distinctive energy to create an inimitable hotel.

Located on a clifftop along the gorgeous coast of Southern Portugal, we'd recommend this hotel for the most magical sunsets on the golden bay of Armacao de Pera! From the breathtaking location on the rooftop at Sea Sky to the expansive W Lounge Garden, W Algarve offers some of the most scenic settings for an amorous celebration. Air is an exclusive venue that offers some of the best sunset views from a clifftop. This one is particularly recommended for wedding ceremonies and receptions.

As your guests enter the hotel through an entrance inspired by ancient local traditions, they'll be escorted around a fluid wall adorned with mirrors and green and blue Portuguese handmade ceramic plates. This sets the tone for the vibe through the hotel – casual and mystical. A connection to the underwater is also evident, especially at the W Lounge, which features an artistic 'wave' shaped installation made of glass panels, inspired by oceanic bubbles and exotic Moorish jewellery. The glamorous bar is decorated with custom-made Moorish tiles, hand-blown glass lamps and a striking 20-metre long onyx counter that extends from the indoor bar to the terrace.

The W offers couples to organise wedding revelries at six different studios spread over 51 square metres and in over 2000 square metres of outdoor space. The adept team of W Insiders takes it a notch higher by recommending the newest experiences in Algarve – local gems that are off-the-beaten-track. Whether you want to tie the knot, pop the question or renew your vows, W Algarve makes it all happen in the most memorable style. From curated catering options to intimate nooks and large spaces to accommodate a lavish wedding party, it can all be arranged. Customising includes playing music that lifts your spirits and resonates with you, using signature scents. Guests can mix and mingle in a laid back way or amp up their energy to rev up the party vibe.

The 134 rooms are maximalist in style, with custom-made furniture and filigree lamps inspired by the region's churches and mosaics made from authentic Algarve ceramics. Where Time Stands Still

The uber luxurious Castel Monastero is a haven for an aristocratic Tuscan way of life. Its Aquae Monasterii Spa, offering highly effective futuristic treatments, is a huge attraction for wellness enthusiasts.

FROM AN ancient monastery nestled amidst the peaceful Tuscan hills back in the 11th-century, Castel Monastero became an epitome of style amidst the verdant expanse dotted by cypress trees just a short drive from Siena. Originally a country retreat for the noble Chigi Saracini family, this is where you'll get to experience true Tuscan life from another era. As time slows down, sunlight floods the palace, the piazza, the church (tying the knot at Castel Monastero has a real royal charm) and the two country houses crowned by the Chigi Saracini family's emblematic star and coat of arms.

Today, this luxury resort is a member of The Leading Hotels of the World, and attracts celebrities as well as discreet guests from all over the world. The property has 74 rooms and suites plus a villa. A sensitive restoration has conserved the country houses' authentic character and rural architecture. The Villa Lavanda is a magnificent 17th-century country house surrounded by a large garden and a thriving Chianti vineyard. Then there are various suites offering superb views across Castel Monastero's fields, vineyards and piazza.

Two restaurants, the gourmet Contrada and the Tuscan La Cantina in the 13th-century cellar, showcase fine Italian hospitality and excellent food that is paired with exquisite local DOC wines. The Aquae Monasterii Spa is spread out and has eight treatment rooms, a water wellness zone and three outdoor pools cascading gently into one another. The gurgle of flowing water completes the picture-perfect surroundings. But the highlight remains the futuristic therapies executed by trained therapists. From the Aemotio detox, anti-age and slimming range exploiting the magical power of water combined with chromotherapy, to the sublime Aquae Monasterii, where an invaluable blend of salts and oligoelements are used on your body, these therapies are known to restore health and vitality. Whether you take the detox programme, with its combination of treatments using LPG machines with detoxifying vapour clouds, Thalasso Detox hydro-aromatherapy compresses, and super-draining massages or the weight-loss programme or an anti-age programme, these treatments are scientific and yield great results. As befits its noble origins, Castel Monastero offers a natural retreat to help you live your life with full vitality.

MAKING BRIDAL DREAMS COME TRUE

Celebrity wedding planner Vedika Mohan reveals the hottest wedding trends this season. BY ARPITA KALA

What is your take on sustainable weddings?

Conscious weddings are chosen, not enforced. Wanting to reduce the carbon footprint is something we, as a company and even couples today, are propagating. Whether it's reusing and repurposing fabrics or donating flowers to NGOs and organisations that can recycle the floral installations used in a celebration, sustainable, conscious weddings are something that we as wedding planners and wedding designers should definitely stand for.

Indian weddings have been intimate and sustainable, and that's become more popular after the pandemic. Do you see this trend last?

Definitely. Couples and families today have become more eco-conscious and the mindset of people is ever evolving. Following the path towards a green wedding is something that's here to stay.

What inspires you the most while planning a wedding?

Life, in all forms. From architecture, and romantic novels to fantasy movies, restaurants and museums, the list is endless.

Planning weddings is a taxing, creative process. Do you have any de-stressors for rejuvenation?

One of my biggest de-stressors is working out. Another one is binge-watching.

And your most memorable moment while planning a wedding was...

Having planned a sunset wedding and making it to the mandap at sunset to catch the golden-hour light for those beautiful, stunning pictures!

What are the hottest wedding trends this season?

Contemporary mandaps, storytelling through food and beverage, and a lot of revenge travel is happening with families now wanting to host destination ones.

Finally, what makes a wedding truly sustainable and eco-friendly?

Working with artisans, craftsmen and other such suppliers and their workforce local to the city you're in. Paperless invites, dry flowers and foam-free floral arrangements, biodegradable confetti. wcdindia.com +

HEIRLOOM WEDDING WARDROBE DECODED

From timeless bridal ensembles to ethereal home furnishings, veteran couturier Ritu Kumar shares the art of assembling a sustainable bridal trousseau. BY ARPITA KALA

Pastel shades never go out of style and make for an ideal pick for a minimalistic wedding trousseau

Sari blouses with statement sleeves are an integral part of your collections. How can sustainability-focused brides-to-be style these pieces?

Over the years, we have seen the sari blouse evolve and transform into a trendy piece of clothing. What once used to be a basic essential to style your sari has today become a primary piece of clothing. Extravagant blouses are very popular these days and re-purposing them is even more exciting. You can pair your statement blouses with a number of outfits—high-waist skirts, dhoti pants, palazzo pants, a contrasting lehenga. If you really put your mind to it, the possibilities are endless. Statement blouses have become an essential for women, who like to experiment with their wardrobes.

Add to those 70,000 square feet of indoor and outdoor space for enjoying great drinks, food and conversation and you have the recipe for life's most meaningful moments.

Besides being a super romantic setting for honeymoons and anniversaries, what with intimate dinners under the stars and long couple massages, there are options for a whole lot of celebration packages (cunqr_concierge@hilton.com) such as elopement and vow renewal where you can celebrate your commitment with a romantic getaway. Arrive to sparkling wine and enjoy dinner under the stars, breakfast can be enjoyed in the suite.

There are as many as five exciting packages to pick from for the Wedding Day. For one, the Signature deal offers a traditional celebration officiated by a bilingual non-denominational minister. Expect a wedding cake, white folding chairs for guests and bouquets or boutonnieres for couple. Add to this an array of extras for a big day like hair and make-up, and a three-hour private reception and you get the Devotion deal, which you can upgrade to a Cherish with add-ons like a wedding arch, aisle runner and a rehearsal dinner the night before the wedding for up to 30 people. You can go the extra mile and ask for a ceremony photo shoot and a reception photo coverage by availing the aptly-named Cherish Captured package.

As brides opt for more minimalistic weddings, what colours do you think will dominate this wedding season?

While deep, earthy tones are always more preferred during winter weddings, pastel shades never go out of style. Picking a minimal outfit in a stunning shade could instantly uplift your look.

What are some things to keep in mind while picking a wedding outfit for a sustainable and eco-conscious wedding?

One thing that lies at the centre of sustainability is the idea of reusability. I always encourage brides to opt for evergreen silhouettes that can be easily transitioned into more wearable pieces down the line. Apart from that I also urge brides to explore sustainable handloom fabrics like silk, where not only are these pieces sustainably sourced and ethically manufactured, they are also very durable, making them ideal for transitioning later on.

According to you, what is the quintessential sari in the trousseau of a sustainable bride, that will be timeless and can become a family heirloom?

Gorgeous Banarasi silk is a wedding wardrobe staple—the richness of the fabric and the way the cloth picks up its colour makes it the perfect choice of textile while considering a bridal look.

What would you suggest as the perfect wedding gift?

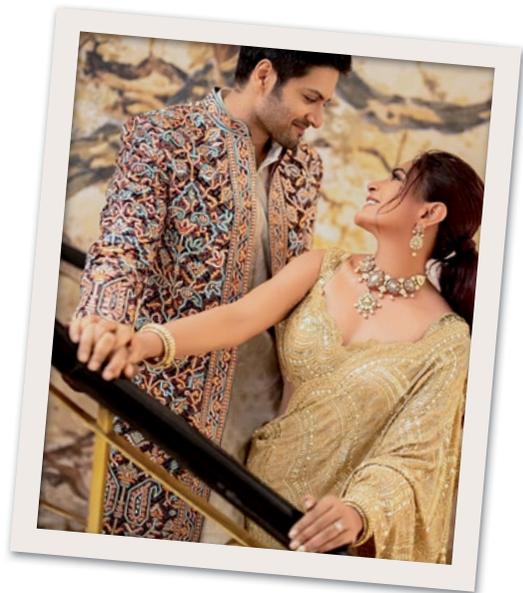

I feel a beautiful dining set with classic patterns or prints will always make for a lovely wedding gift. It also is a very thoughtful and functional present since the newlyweds will be starting their journey together at a new home. ritukumar.com † like confidentiality, how much and what we can reveal to the media and when, as well as so many other stakeholders like designers, PR, decor and more.

What was your most memorable moment from the Richa-Ali wedding you designed?

Memorable moments for us always are when our clients turn around and say 'thank you'. If you see the recent pictures of the wedding of Bollywood actors Richa Chaddha and Ali Fazal, you will see what we mean. There has been such an outpouring of love and thanks on social media and on leading online Bollywood platforms that extensively featured the work that we did, with a special focus on the decor. That really was a high point for us, especially since we spent over two years planning it and keeping it under wraps till just before the wedding.

them, we are trying all options. We also use materials that lessen the carbon footprint. For instance, donating leftover food to NGOs. Flowers are collected after events and donated to organisations like Phool, who, in turn, reuse them.

Yes. For us, every wedding and every couple is unique and curating a TailorMade experience for each individual is what we specialise in. As a process, we get a questionnaire filled out by each couple. Based on inputs received from the couple, we give them ideas to start collating their thoughts on their ideal wedding. ✦

“I HAD A COMPLETE BLAST AT MY WEDDING!”

Arpita Mehta, the Mumbai-based designer who recently tied the knot with long-time beau and menswear couturier Kunal Rawal, reveals intimate details of her subtle-yet-stylish wedding. BY ISMAT TAHSEEN

IT'S BEEN A FEW weeks since designers Arpita Mehta and Kunal Rawal got married and the new bride is still getting congratulatory messages with the question, “How did you manage to keep it all understated and so aesthetic?” smiles Mehta. The couple tied the knot on August 28, 2022 and their cream-and-gold affair saw everyone perfectly in sync from their customised clothes to the jewellery, make-up and décor, making people wonder whether months of planning had gone into it. But 30-days is all they had says Mehta, as she opens up about all that went into her beautiful nuptials...

“Kunal and I were extremely involved in everything from the clothes to the décor.”

Looking back on her big day, Arpita says, “I have never had so much fun than on our wedding weekend. It was very intimate, just 70 of our near-and-dear ones and as a bride, I had a complete blast! It wasn't easy, of course, to plan it all in one month. Kunal and I were involved thoroughly in the look and feel of everything.”

The wedding clothes were naturally a big part of the planning as both Mehta and Rawal are powerful names in fashion. “Being designers, one thing we knew for sure was, the boys would have to be dressed in Kunal and the girls, in Arpita. We decided on a cream-and-gold theme as this is our favourite palette and something we do a lot in our lines as well,” she says.

“We sat down with every guest and asked them, ‘What do you want to wear?’”

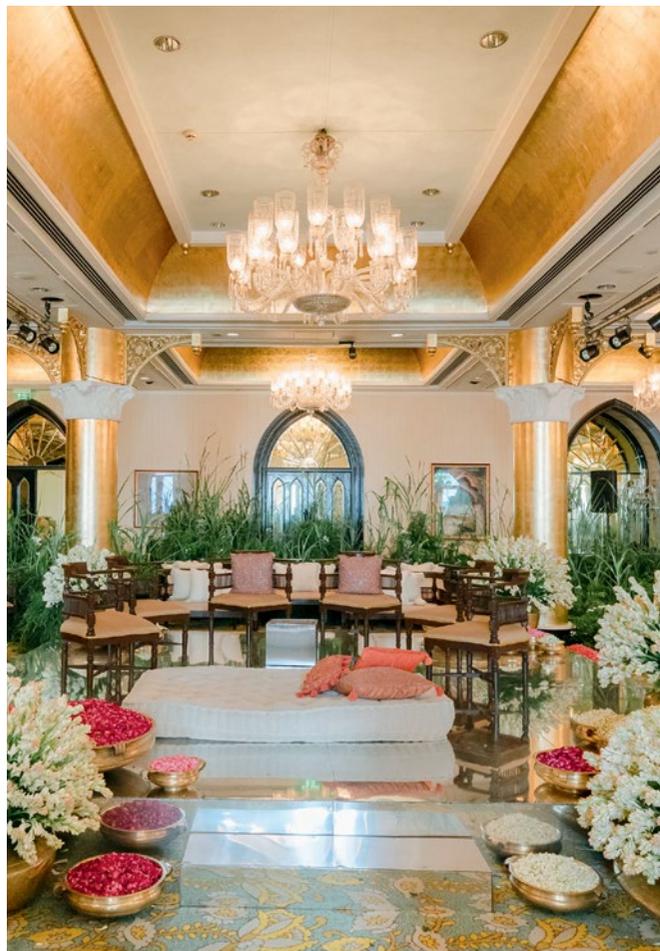

Mehta wanted to customise outfits for each girl, who was invited. She shares, “Usually at weddings, all eyes are on the bride and groom and so, guests dress up as they wish. But the pictures end up looking uncoordinated. In this case, it wasn't just about customising each outfit, but also about putting together each individual's look with the jewellery, hair, etc. and it wasn't easy. For one, everyone's body type is different, and you can't fit everyone into the same style. A sari may work for one, but a sharara would be apt for someone else. We sat with every guest and asked them what they wanted to wear. I ended up having in-depth make-up, hair and jewellery discussions to match each outfit, too. The whole month pre-wedding was when all the execution had to happen. I'd wake up at 5.30am to be in my office right, until the last day. Finally, on the wedding day, it was a sheer joy to have everyone wear our clothes. Similarly, for the décor, Kunal and I selected every cushion, plant, light and rug by ourselves.”

“I made the lehenga of my dreams to not change into something else post phas.”

On D-Day, Mehta made for a stunning bride in her cream-and-gold cutdana lehenga detailed with 18,700 mirrors, that had a beautiful four-metre-long tulle veil with dainty 3-D mirrorwork flowers and thread work. “You may see your outfit in a picture any number of times, but seeing it on you is another feeling,” she shares. “I remember doing five samples of the same piece to get it exactly as I wanted.”

Mehta was certain she did not want one element that is cliched. “As much as I love beautiful, fully hand-embroidered lehengas, I don’t enjoy them as it can get heavy and uncomfortable. I prefer softer, free-flowing numbers. So, while the ghera remained, I added soft tulle to my lehenga. In spite of it being heavy, I could still be in it from 6am to 6pm, as I did not want to be that bride, who wears it just for the pheras and then changes into something else. I had decided, if I am going to be making the lehenga of my dreams, I might as well be in it for a long time on D-day,” reveals the designer.

Mehta’s veil also had a special touch. She adds, “It had to look Indian because a veil can be passed off as a borrowed tradition. To tie it within my look, I added the same mirrorwork flowers from the lehenga and made them 3-D. I wore minimal make-up for a soft glam look for the morning. Being petite, I feel less is more.”

“When I walked in on the bridal entry song and saw Kunal dancing, my gait changed.”

She recalls the bridal entry as being one of her best moments. “Everyone loved it and I remember how I decided my song just five minutes ahead. It was from a movie we had gone to watch, when Kunal and I had just started dating. I walked in slowly, assuming it would be a quiet and serious scene and there I saw Kunal, dancing in the mandap. Naturally, my walk changed and from treading in a straight line, I started swinging a bit! This changed the mood to a fun and lively one. Kunal lifted me off my feet – it was the most impromptu moment, which turned out to be our favourite moment from the wedding. With somethings, you’ve to go with the flow.”

Did Rawal get a peek beforehand of what she was wearing and vice versa, we ask? “No, he only saw glimpses of the outfit, when it was in the process of swatches. On the D-day, when I walked into the hall, I could just see what he felt in his eyes, in his dance and all over his face, and it was the same for me,” she reveals.

For the newlyweds, their equation has only gotten stronger. Says Mehta, “I’ve known Kunal for very long and we know one another inside out. So, it’s literally like marrying your best friend and it’s the same for him. It’s about unfolding a new chapter with a best friend and partner, for life.”

When we prod Mehta to divulge their honeymoon plans, she says: “We haven’t decided on that yet. We’d just treat it like a trip or a holiday, keeping work in mind as we both have hectic days. We will figure out where to go soon.” +

AS

I REACHED THE SAADIYAT ISLAND, 20 minutes away from Abu Dhabi International Airport, the stunning views of the glittering turquoise waters of the Arabian Gulf, the never-ending expanse of white sands and the elegant, luxurious resorts—each strikingly stood out like prominent monuments in a setting perfect for an epic wedding.

You could very well imagine Elizabeth Taylor exchanging her real-life vows with one of her eight husbands here or Jennifer Lopez swapping Ben Affleck's Georgia Estate for this island as their wedding backdrop—the reason: Saadiyat Island offers captivating natural surroundings and most importantly exclusivity. The island spells romantic escapism, glorified in the poems of Percy Shelley and John Keats or in Ingmar Bergman movies.

Little surprise that Saadiyat Island served as the destination for our cover shoot this special issue. Along with Bollywood actor Aditi Rao Hydari, we took a tour of this dreamy island as we captured some gorgeous locations.

Jumeirah at Saadiyat Island Resort

Hydari along with the rest of the crew put up at Jumeirah at Saadiyat Island resort, an oasis of understated luxury. Offering panoramic views of the cerulean sea and a vast private beach, the contemporary property has been designed in a minimalist way to reflect its commitment to sustainability—be it the earthy tones of the interiors or the natural materials used for the upholstery. A glass-blown installation suspended from the ceiling in the lobby draws inspiration from drops of the ocean and the colour palette reflects the seven colours of the Arabian Gulf. Each of the 296 rooms, suites and villas have been done up in the same white and beige tones with floor-to-ceiling windows offering panoramic views of the ocean. The stretches of white sandy beaches look the most appealing at sunset as the sky dons different hues ranging from pink, orange, golden to purple. And the pool bar or the Italian restaurant Mare Mare are the best places to catch the sunset with a delish cocktail for company. If you have always wanted a sunset wedding, the beach terrace or the beautiful, landscaped garden are stunning locations that can turn a simple wedding into a fairy-tale.

One of the highlights of the property is the spa that spans 2,700sqm, with 13 treatment rooms that include sauna, hydrotherapy pools, steam room, salt room, experience showers, traditional Arabic Rasul room and the largest hammam in the city. So, if you want to calm the most jittery of nerves before the big day, book an appointment at the spa here.

The exclusive villas at the resort offer an exceptional experience with tastefully done up interiors. Minute attention to detail has been paid to each aspect of the villa—from the art works framed on the wall to the bed canopies and rugs. We shot with Hyadri at the five-bedroom villa, which had a private terrace, pool and lawn. On being asked what impressed her most at the property, Hydari was quick to reply: “The tranquillity and the laid-back vibe is going to stay with me for a while.” jumeirah.com

Saadiyat Beach Club

Next door to Jumeirah at Saadiyat Island Resort is the popular Saadiyat Beach Club that serves as a relaxing dining place in the afternoon and turns into a bustling party place in the evening with DJs belting out foot-tapping numbers from across the globe. We, however, headed early in the morning to the club, to catch a few stunning shots on the beach with our cover star. The pearly white sand is perfectly juxtaposed with the bluest waters of the Gulf and as the sun rose casting its magical light, the scene, one of the most beautiful that I have seen till date, remains etched in memory. Hyadri dressed in a flowing red outfit looked like a stunning boho bride.

The beach club is an ideal location for couples looking for a chilled out, seaside wedding. Cabana 9 Lawn at the club, spans an area of 655 square metres and serves as a blank canvas for a memorable wedding. To help out with the preps, the club provides dedicated event planners, tailor-made menus, banquet set up and five-star service and culinary staff. saadiyatbeachclub.ae

Park Hyatt Abu Dhabi Hotel and Villa

Another popular wedding destination at Saadiyat Island is this 5-star luxury resort with 306 luxuriously appointed rooms, suites, and villas. It skilfully blends subtle elegance with regional charm and offers bespoke wedding services. The in-house team of experts take care of the needs of the guests—be it intricate floral decorations or a menu comprising local Emirati, as well as global cuisines prepared by the executive chef or live entertainment by local artists. Couples can choose from both indoor and outdoor function spaces. The beach lawn can turn into the altar and for a dinner dance reception, the beautiful 523-square-meter Alyazya Ballroom serves as an ideal location. What's more, you can stay on post the wedding to unwind with indulgent spa sessions at the award-winning Atarmia Spa. hyatt.com

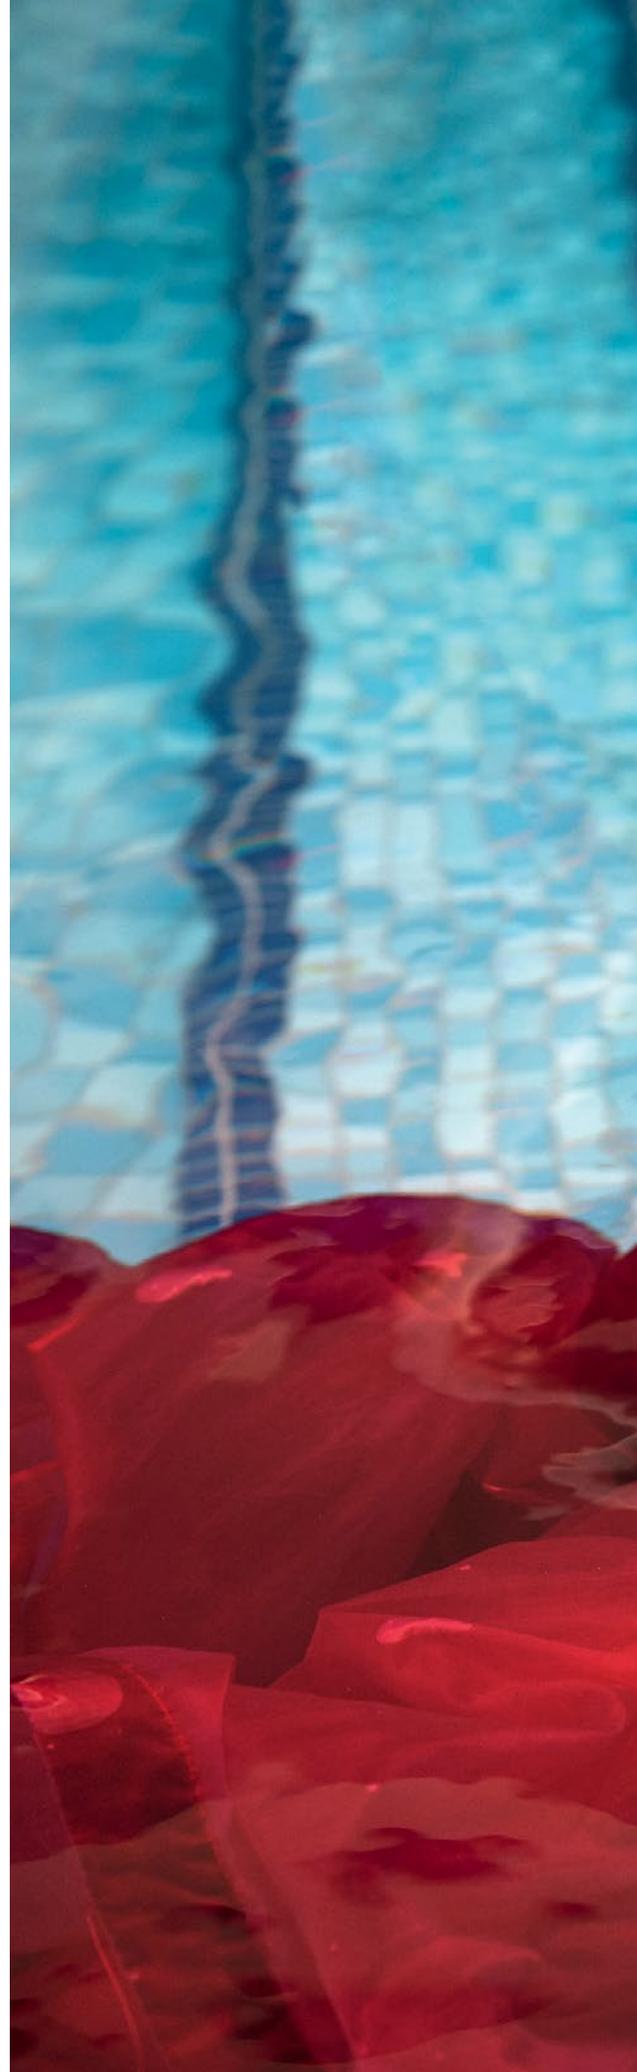

Saadiyat Rotana Resort & Villas

Saadiyat Rotana Resort & Villas stands out among other properties for its modern Arabic architecture. To those looking for an island getaway wedding with elements of local culture, the property is a great venue. The resort has 327 rooms and suites, and 13 beach villas. The swaying palms dotting the property and the beautiful, landscaped gardens overlooking the sea add a verdant green touch to the otherwise blue and white backdrop. The resort offers several exquisite venues for weddings - from three fully-equipped banquet and event rooms and an elegant ballroom to The Lawn, a large outdoor event venue. There are interesting dining options as well. From Si Ristorante Italiano & Bar, the first Italian restaurant on Saadiyat Island, Hamilton's Gastropub, a lively nightspot to Turtle Bay Bar & Grill, a stunning rooftop bar--couples can easily choose one of the venues for cocktail parties or for intimate dinners. Rotana also offers customised wedding packages for the guests to choose from. saadiyatrotanaresort.com

St. Regis Saadiyat Island Resort

Imagine a classy Bridgerton setting, but in the UAE instead of the English countryside. We are talking about the the Lady Astor Afternoon Tea served every day at The Drawing Room at St Regis. The ritual is inspired by Mrs Astor, the founder of the first St. Regis in New York, who hosted intimate gatherings with her closest friends. How charming it would be to make this a part of your wedding celebration! The menu includes classic dishes from the St. Regis High Tea, while the 'Local inspired' menu includes regional desserts.

The rooms and grand suites also follow the same philosophy of blending classy with local influences—Mediterranean-influenced architecture are peppered with thoughtful décor elements like Calcutta marble floors,

Our cover star, actor Aditi Rao Hydari, gets candid about her idea of a romantic getaway, an idyllic honeymoon spot and why she likes close, intimate weddings By Chirag Mohanty Samal

Rapid fire

WHAT’S ON YOUR TRAVEL BUCKET LIST?

South America and Korea for their beauty industry.

A PLACE IN INDIA YOU REALLY WANT TO EXPLORE?

The Northeast and Madhya Pradesh.

FIRST THING YOU DO ON REACHING A NEW PLACE?

MOST MEMORABLE HOLIDAY TILL DATE?

Each holiday I took as a little girl with my mum, grandparents and cousins in Mangalore and Ooty.

How hard is it to always be your best version? What do you do for your glowing skin and fit body?

I’ve studied and become nerdy about it now. Earlier I wasn’t, I just relied on genetics. But, over time I have become more mindful because as actors we have erratic schedules and odd sleeping hours. A lot of directors that I have worked with, have wanted me to be on screen without makeup. So, it’s about the little things that add on over time—like not abusing your body.

But at the same time, you need to understand what works for you and what doesn’t. You need to eat healthy, but once in a while give in to your cravings - eat those chocolates! It’s all about balancing things out.

Most importantly you need to stay happy, then you can channel that happiness into whatever it is that is happening around you. Happiness is infectious and people latch on to it. You could be the most beautiful person in a room, but if you’re unhappy, you aren’t going to make anyone happy.

How do you stay fit while travelling?

The simplest thing would be to do a 10–15-minute functional routine. I feel that if you have behaved with your food and maintained your timings, then just 15 minutes is enough to keep you feeling good.

I’m not a gym fanatic and I don’t want to be dependent on that kind of thing because it’s addictive. I want to be able to work out when I can and not feel terrible when I don’t. I really love yoga and dancing, so I try to do that whenever I can.

How does travel inspire you as an actor?

Travel expands your mind, and it makes you less judgmental. It makes you accepting of different people and cultures. To me, travel is about celebrating differences and diversity. I feel like a five-year-old when I’m travelling because there’s so much to take in. There’s a sense of adventure in the unknown and I love that.

What is your idea of a romantic getaway?

When you’re with the person you love, any place becomes beautiful. It’s about two people being comfortable and happy in each other’s company.

But with the work that I do, it would be good to go away to a place where you can just be a part of another environment seamlessly. Where you can just chill, let your hair down and not worry about someone identifying you. I crave for that anonymity.

What according to you is an idyllic honeymoon destination?

Tuscany and some places in Portugal are beautiful. I generally like Europe because I love history and the culture is quite varied in different parts.

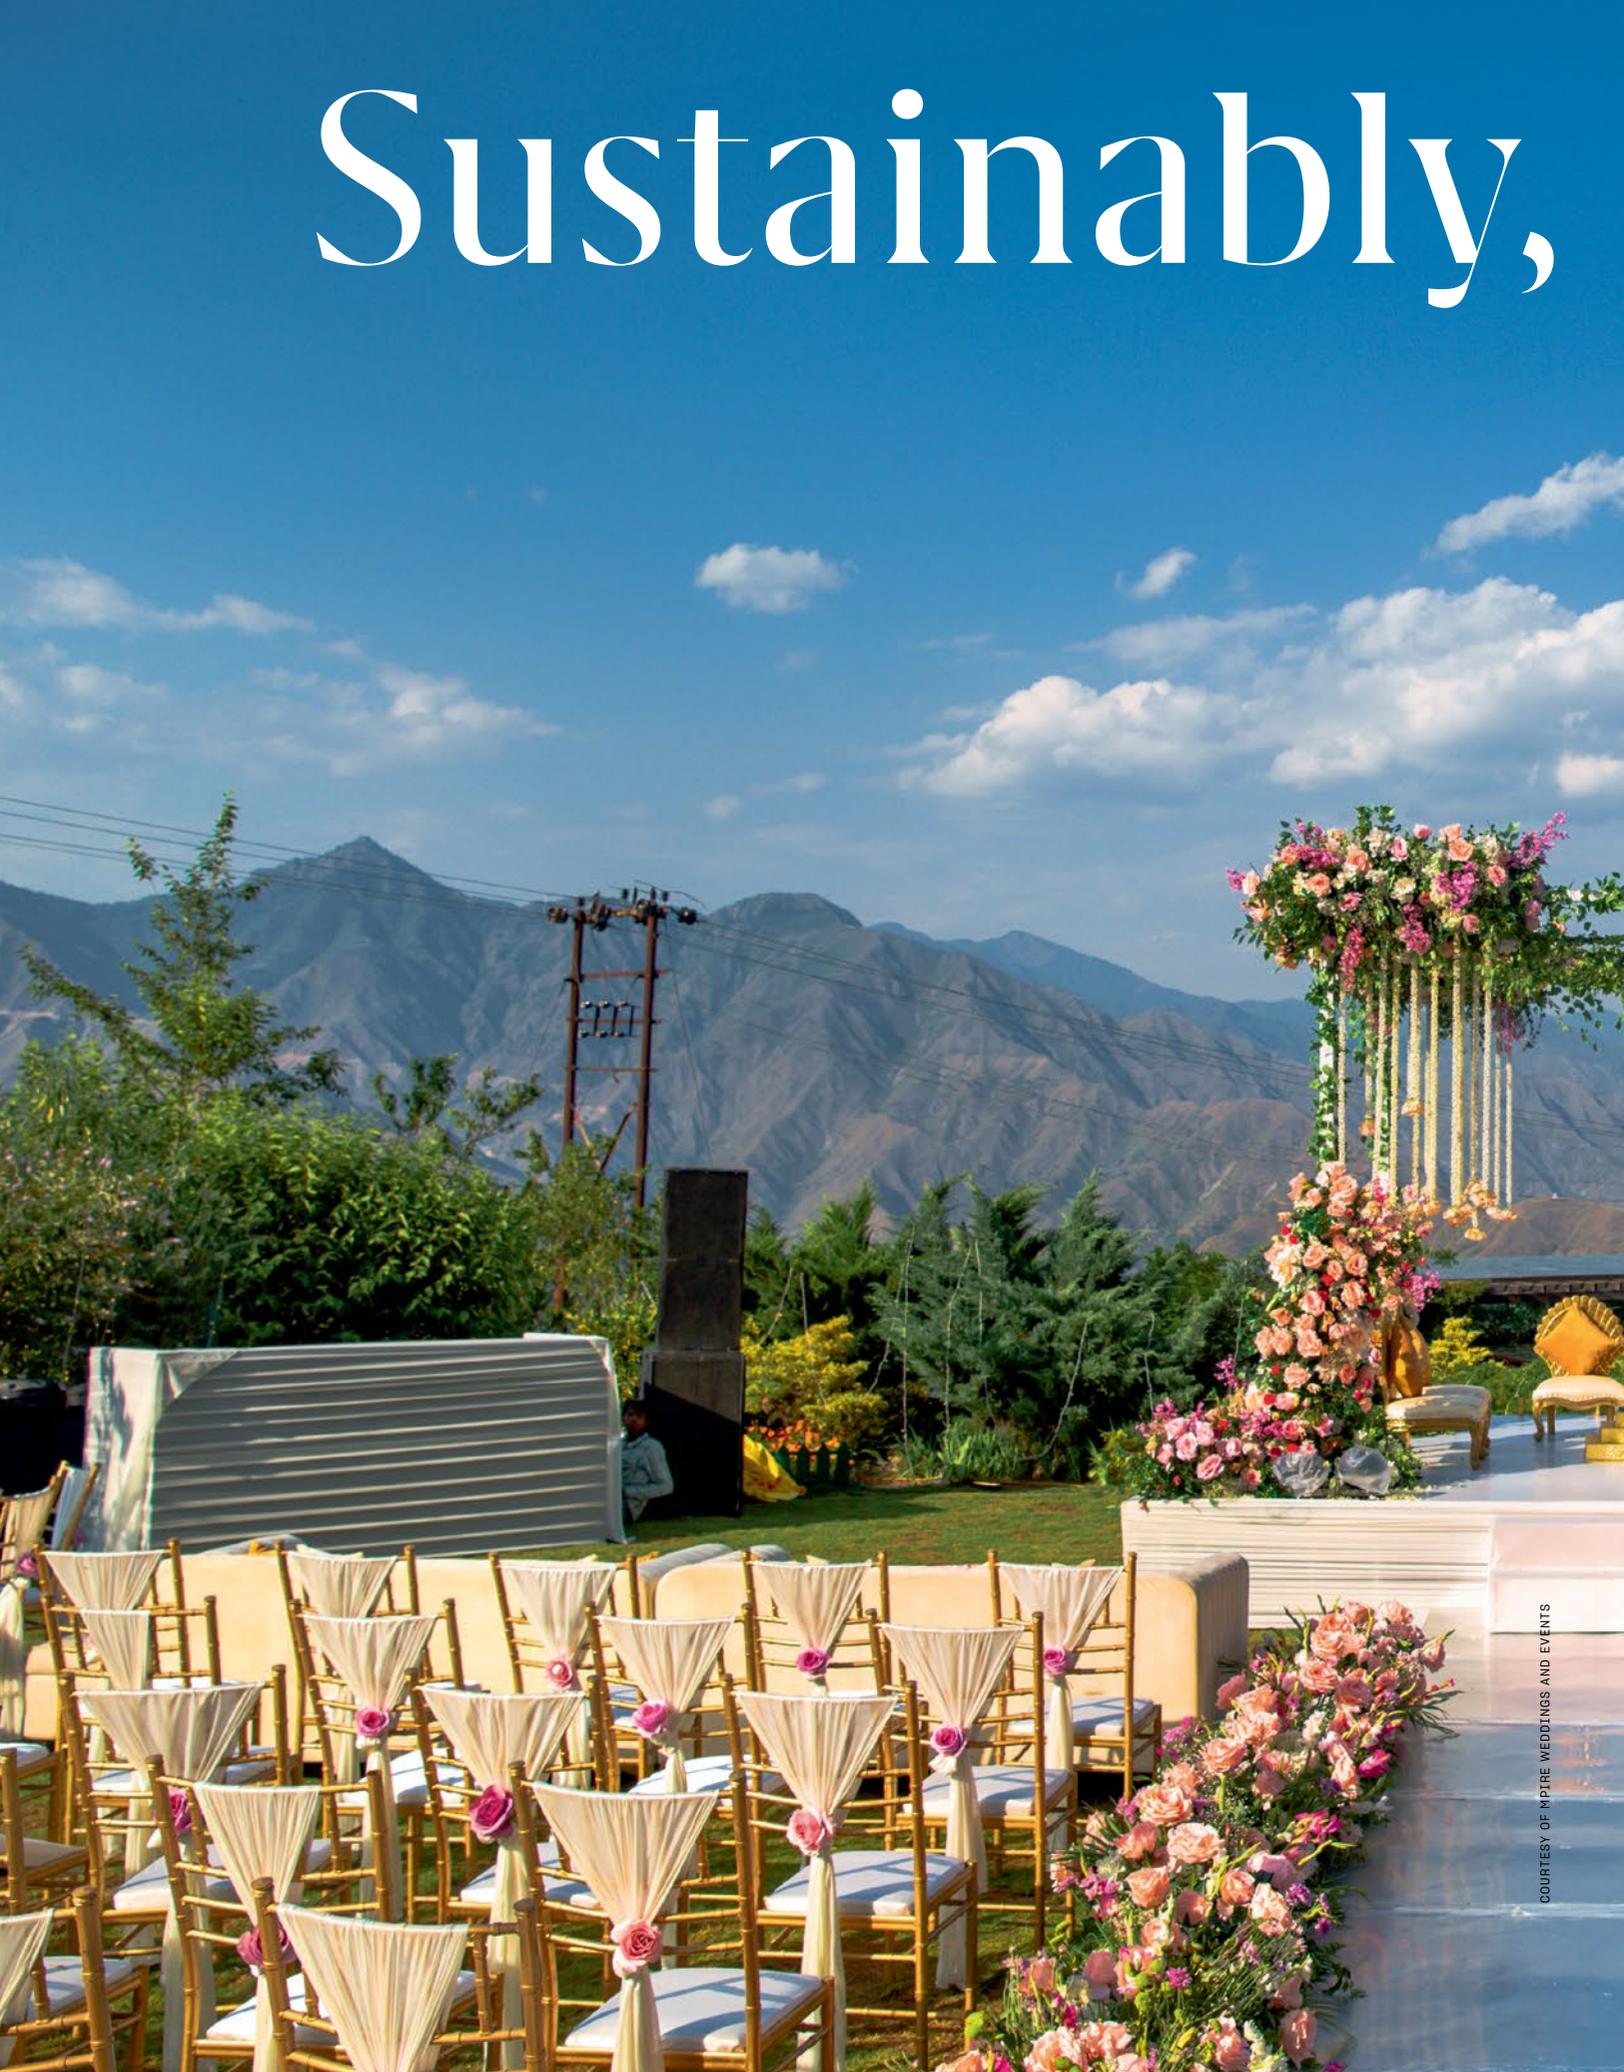

You shot at Jumeirah Sadiyaat, what did you like about the property?

The expanse of an empty, private beach and the blue sea. I love being near the sea—I find it very romantic, beautiful and musical. I love the sound waves. Just being here (at the property) made me breathe easy and it felt peaceful. Everything was moving in slow motion, I enjoyed that feeling.

What kind of wedding would you prefer—a lavish destination wedding or a close intimate affair?

I’d prefer an intimate, destination wedding, which is a close affair because I feel celebrations need to be done with your closest people. It’s their blessings that matter the most, and it’s about feeling the love at that point. ✦

Sustainably,

Ever After

As zero-waste weddings become the new normal, brides- and grooms-to-be are resorting to creative and nouvelle ways to celebrate their love stories, without ignoring their Insta-perfect moments. From wedding illustrations painted in real-time, to farm-to-table wedding menus and local handcrafted decor, green nuptials are revolutionising the wedding market. Here's a crash course on how to plan a zero-waste, minimalist shaadi, while still making sure your special day is truly memorable. BY ARPITA KALA

10 Eco-friendly Wedding Invite Ideas

When it comes to sustainable, intimate nuptials, wedding cards are more than just another way to extend your warmest welcome to your loved ones for your big day. Virtual or sustainably handmade, your creative wedding invitation is the perfect way to provide your guest a sneak-peek to your upcoming celebrations, as well as to set the tone for your big day!

INTIMATE NUPTIALS with smaller guest-lists are all about personalising your D-day to match your sensibilities. As more couples stray from sending out traditional, ornate wedding invitation cards, many brands are introducing creative ways to cut down on paper and plastic usage.

“Sustainable weddings, albeit still a micro-trend, have picked up pace among discerning brides and grooms, who are extremely sensitive about the environment. Many planners have found a middle-ground between luxury and sustainability through wedding hampers, gifts, invitation cards, and even the service of beverages in a way, where we can benefit the environment, at large, in our own little way,” says Vikram Mehta, founder and executive director of Mpire Events.

Digital wedding invitations

While using recycled paper is a decent way to send out your save-the-dates, you can also go the paperless route by opting for digital invitations. Paperless Post (paperlesspost.com) and Greenvelope (greenvelope.com) are a few of the websites, where you can make your digital-wedding-invite dreams come true. With a wide range of designs, colour palettes and even customising options, you can pick a wedding card to suit your individual theme and send it out with just a click. Yes, no trees will be harmed in sending these invites out.

Wedding caricatures

Engaging local artisans is an integral part of a sustainable wedding. From graphic designers to artists and illustrators, take the help of social media to get in touch with your favourite creators to design a wedding illustration unique to your celebrations. The Entertainment Design Co. (edc.co.in), Woodle Doodle Designs (woodledoodledesigns.com) by Sumouli Dutta, The Effeminare are some of the many such creators, who specialise in wedding caricature invitations.

Wedding

Calligraphy

Another way to take your wedding invitations up a notch is by adorning your recycled paper invitation card or digital invitation with the ancient art of calligraphy. From bevelled Arabic to meandering Devnagari or one of the many regional scripts personal to you, choose a local calligrapher to craft a stunning wedding invitation.

Coffee-table book

Shared memories and deep familial bonding characterise an intimate wedding. It can also be a wonderful opportunity to create family coffee-table books that double as an invitation, but can be read and re-read in the years to come. From sharing your love story to family histories, your wedding invite book can be filled with beautiful pictures and be a valued family keepsake.

Plantable invitations

Can you imagine a wedding invitation that blooms into a beautiful flower when planted? Well, this is indeed a practice, as eco-friendly ventures such as 21Fools (21fools.com), Reign Green (seed-balls.in) and Plantables (plantables.store) offer wedding invitation services using seed paper that can one day blossom into a pretty bloom.

Potted plants

And... those who can't wait for their invitations to one day blossom, can always opt for potted plant ones. Just visit your local nursery to pick up your choice of succulents or snake plants to send out your save-the-dates with a breath of fresh air, literally!

VR invitations

With Metaverse weddings, NFT wedding gifts and more, as the wedding industry becomes more digitally inclusive, Virtual Reality (VR) wedding invitations are the cool stuff. VR-based invites and video invitation boxes are a great way to add a touch of digital maximalism to your sustainable celebration. If you do decide to go this route, you can check out brands such as Puneet Gupta Invitations (puneetguptainvitations.in) to add a dash of virtual reality to your nuptials.

Bespoke stationery

Reuse, recycle and repeat—this is the mantra of many new-age minimalist, eco-friendly weddings. Take a cue from some creative couples and invest in some wedding stationery that also doubles as save-the-date invitations for your guests. From printed pens to monogrammed reminders and notepads, this is one wedding invite your guests will truly appreciate.

Cloth scrolls

A wedding invite printed on biodegradable fabrics such as organic cotton and hemp is quite the regal way to celebrate your special day. Think old-school scrolls, hand-delivered by messengers back in the day, and you get an idea of what to expect with these fancy, yet eco-friendly invites.

Wedding blog

Create a wedding blog and furnish it with your love story, family photographs and wedding details. You can also include interactive sections, where guests can share their stories about the couple and more. Send out the link to the blog as your wedding invitation and watch the fun unfold!

Green Wedding Decor

Be it a nature-inspired woodland wonderland or a homage to your favourite local artist, wedding planners share what sustainable wedding decor dreams are made of.

WITH A SLEW OF CELEBRITIES opting for no-waste, sustainable nuptials, the era of over-the-top, larger-than-life weddings have been replaced by something more subdued. Modern weddings seem to echo ‘the less is more’ ethos of the traditional Indian weddings of yore and are all about mixing style with utilitarianism – especially when it comes to wedding decor.

Sustainable superstars

Wedding designer Aashna Saran, who designed actor Dia Mirza’s unforgettable sustainable nuptial, says, “We loved creating Dia Mirza’s wedding as it was completely sustainable and consciously executed. There was no compromise on the grandeur but it still remained a zero-waste wedding. Everything was either reusable, eco-friendly or upcycled. There was also no plastic used in the cutlery or decor. We also upcycled all the furniture and added beautiful flowers on the chairs.”

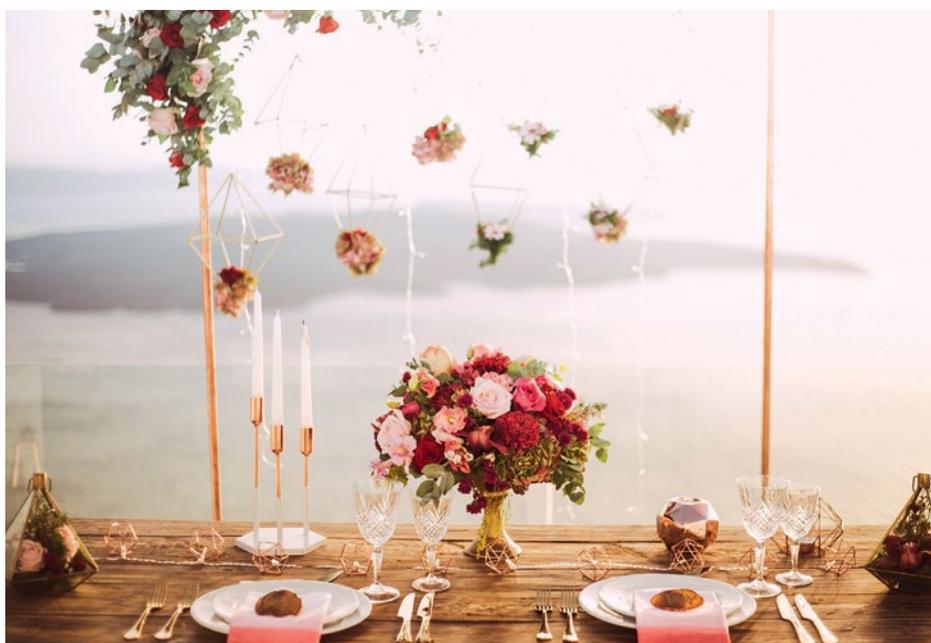

Bollywood’s bad boy Ranveer Singh and his lady love Deepika Padukone also opted for biodegradable tableware for their nuptials that were crafted from sugarcane fibre. While Alia Bhatt and Ranbir Kapoor’s recent intimate home wedding featured lots of flora, potted plants and fairy lights with nary a piece of plastic confetti in sight.

It all begins with a venue

From lovingly tended family gardens to sprawling patios of heritage properties, nature-inspired venues are intrinsic to intimate, sustainable weddings.

“Garden themed weddings where venues lend themselves to be a part of the decor are a popular choice for hosting a sustainable wedding. Such venues don’t require much to leave a good impression on the guests,” says Darshan Shroff of Momente Weddings (momente.in/). Sustainable weddings are all about being one with nature and so, open venues remain a popular choice for such nuptials.

The natural theme also allows more scope for creativity when it comes to decor. “When we’re working on a sustainable wedding, it’s about enhancing the venue and letting nature do the talking. The decor remains an accent element that is minimalist yet subtly impactful,” says Aashna Saran, founder of Aash Studio (aashstudio.com). Reusing, repurposing and using biodegradable accents is also an important part of a green wedding.

Beauty in biodegradability

“We once curated a wedding for an extremely environmentally-conscious couple that was quite a lesson in sustainability,” shares Vikram Mehta, founder of Mpire Weddings and Events (mpireweddings.com), adding, “The plastic water bottles in every room were replaced with glass ones. We encouraged our decorator to source locally-grown flowers and dress our ceremonies with reusable decor. There were non-toxic candles, biodegradable confetti and glitter for the big day. We reduced surplus paper wastage and used seed paper to encourage guests to use it to plant trees. It was a huge wedding with a high profile guest list and to be able to pull that off shows that you do not have to make compromises to be sustainable.”

Finding your light

All sustainable endeavours come to a naught if your wedding is being powered by fossil fueled guzzling generators. So, it is important to opt for a venue that is eco-friendly and/or has a good LEED rating.

Darshan Shroff adds, “Many guests are oblivious to the fact that such experiences can be luxurious, enriching and inspire them to consider the same for future celebrations. We recently decorated a sangeet with absolutely no single-use materials such as flowers and plastic. So, we went down the lights and mirrors route. The entire venue was made using an array of lights, mirrors and beautifully personalised LED displays of the couple’s favourite quotes.”

Flower power

Materials such as jute, cane, local handicrafts, and natural methods of dying fabric are some popular choices for green wedding decor.

“We often prefer using plant decor instead of centrepieces. I believe we can create something long-term by avoiding materials such as flex in favour of natural products to create wooden flooring for example, and reusing what we have with recyclable materials, and repurposing furniture so that we can achieve a new look and also feel great about our choices,” says Aashna Saran.

While flower garlands are the mainstay of a traditional Indian weddings, floral wedding decor does not need to be single-use. You can get your wedding flowers framed as home decor, dry the bouquets to create home furnishings and more. Or better still, engage your local tailors to create silken cloth flower garlands that can last happily ever after too.

Of Zero-waste Menus

Local delicacies, fresh produce, Insta-famous charcuterie boards and more... Here's how you can make your wedding menu a no-waste affair.

INDIAN WEDDINGS are celebrations that combine two of our greatest loves—romance and food. And, even though our appetite for love stories is insatiable, the same cannot be said about wedding food. According to Feeding India, about 10 to 20 per cent of the food served at Indian weddings go to waste. To put that into perspective, it is estimated that there are almost 10 million weddings held in the country every year.

So, curating a wedding menu to ensure minimal or zero-waste becomes crucial for a sustainable wedding. Wedding planner Darshan Shroff agrees, “There has always been a subvert pressure to make any Indian wedding into a big, ostentatious event. However, the last couple of years have shown us that weddings can be sustainable and intimate without compromising on the entire experience of a big fat Indian wedding.”

Bye bye buffet

A no-waste wedding menu caters to the needs of your guests and cuts down on gigantic food stations. You can also opt to confirm the dietary preferences of your guests prior to the event and plan accordingly with your caterers. Many sustainable wedding planners prefer to serve individual plated food rather than the buffet-style spread.

Local love

Adding traditional local delicacies or even favourite family recipes to your menu can add a personal touch to your wedding food curation. You can also explore the farm-to-table concept for your wedding festivities, to support your local agricultural community or food vendors.

Traditional tableware

From using silverware, glass or steel utensils for beverages to serving food the traditional way in earthenware and on banana leaves, many couples are opting for an eco-friendly dining experience for their guest. This cuts down the use of plastic drastically and also creates an interactive, fun experience for your bridal party.

Extra sharing

Another way to manage the surplus wedding food is to share it. You can coordinate with many non-profit foundations to manage the excess food and distribute it among those in need. Meanwhile there are also organisations that can help you decompose your food waste efficiently. †

Regal Rajasthan

WHEN A STATE COMES packed with culturally-rich offerings, mesmerising architecture, and abundant history, it's natural for it to sit high on a honeymooners' list. Crammed with ancient havelis and hints of royalty in every nook, Rajasthan's capital city Jaipur has long cemented its tag as a romantic destination. When here, look beyond the usual Hawa Mahal and Amber Palace, and travel back in time at the 18th century Jaigarh Fort or the 475-year-old Samode Palace, a small drive away from the city. For romance in the lap of wilderness, look no further than Bharatpur—a famed bird-watching wetland that annually sees migratory aviary friends flocking to the region. Should international vacations seem unviable, Udaipur compensates. Fondly known as the Venice of the East, the city of lakes comes hemmed by the lush green Aravalli hills—all of which are best explored on a romantic bicycle tour. Some of the other bucket list-worthy honeymoon destinations in Rajasthan are Jodhpur, Jaisalmer, Pushkar, and Chittorgarh tourism.rajasthan.gov.in

THIS FARAWAY ISLAND destination in Malaysia is a great way to be off the radar as you enjoy your post-wedded bliss. Let the tropical shores soothe your senses, as you check into your private over-water villa, one of the few destinations apart from the Maldives, where you can enjoy this experience. There are plenty of luxury hotels to choose from as well as budget-friendly options. Spend your days exploring traditional villages, trekking and forest trails, go island or beach-hopping — the coastline is fringed with picturesque beaches and turquoise waters, take a helicopter tour for a bird's-eye view of the gorgeous landscape and indulge in candlelit dinners by the beach or in the middle of a lush rainforest. The island has also been awarded a Unesco Global Geopark status, so conservation is a top priority, with geoforest parks and biogeo trails. If you're looking for a blissful island getaway, Langkawi checks several boxes. tourism.gov.my

Magnificent Mauritius

THIS ISLAND COUNTRY in the Indian Ocean, off the coast of Africa, makes for a great honeymoon getaway. Bright blue lagoons, lush coral reefs, dramatic landscapes that change from mountains and white sand beaches to jungles and volcanic caves, Mauritius is all this and more. The capital city, Port Louis, is vibrant and a melange of cultures with local street fare and markets selling fresh produce. The beaches in Mauritius are idyllic and dreamy — from the popular Belle Mare, said to be one of the longest on the island to the serene Le Morne beach, located close to the Black River Gorges National Park. Opt for a catamaran cruise, go scuba diving and snorkelling in the pristine waters, paddle in a glass-bottomed boat as you admire the lush marine life or simply unwind on a leisurely cruise as you go dolphin watching in the turquoise waters. For something more adventurous, take to kite surfing, kayaking, parasailing or zip-lining over a forest—the choices are plenty. In Mauritius, all you need to do is slow down and savour the island pace of life. tourism.govmu.org

The couple's wedding vows were spoken from the heart and moved everyone to tears.

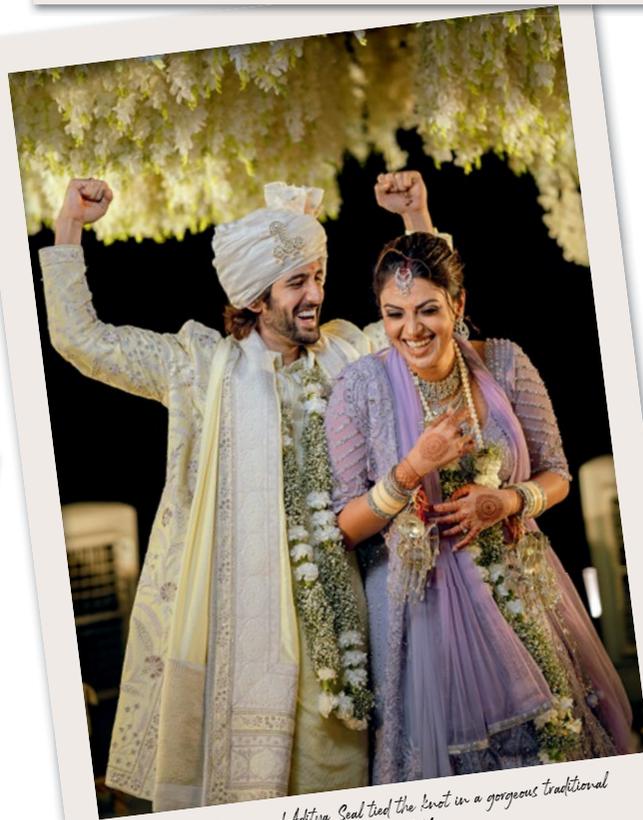

SHAMA SIKANDER AND JAMES MILLIRON

A white wedding was the vision for actor Shama Sikander and long-time beau James Milliron's nuptials. The couple brought their fairy-tale wedding to life this March in an intimate ceremony in Goa.

Sikander shares, "Each and every event of our wedding was truly special because we had an intimate wedding guest list of just 50 people. But still, if I had to choose one singular moment it would have to be the part of exchanging our wedding vows. James and I did not have much time before to write the vows because we made a decision to get married rather quickly, within one month! The whole thing was truly magical. Everyone had tears in their eyes, the sun was setting and the ambience was perfect."

The bride was moved to tears when she found out that Aditya had sung and recorded her favourite song for her bridal entry.

Actors Anushka Ranjan and Aditya Seal tied the knot in a gorgeous traditional wedding ceremony in Mumbai in November 2021.

ANUSHKA RANJAN AND ADITYA SEAL

As a curator of emotionally charged moments, a wedding photographer is privy to some of the most beautiful moments. Harjot K Dhillon, creative director, The Wedding Story shares a touching moment that made guests present at actors Anushka Ranjan and Aditya Seal's wedding shed tears of joy!

Dhillon says, "Anushka was keen to approach a certain artist to sing a rendition of the legendary Nusrat Fateh Ali song 'Kivein Mukhde' for her bridal entry and she shared the thought with Aditya. As he was about to approach the artist, he thought it'll be even better if he could sing it for her! She had no idea about this up until the point of her entry. She was overwhelmed and couldn't control her tears. That moment was priceless."
